To illustrate our leaflets, we asked our community to share photos of places that mean something to their recovery journey.

Front: "The photo was taken at Puttle's Bridge. When my mental health was at its worst, I lost interest in most of my passions but I've started creating again, mainly through photography. Being able to head to the New Forest and embrace everything it has to offer has been extremely beneficial to my mental health" - Emma

Inside: "I took this photo at Lepe beach, when I had depression. I sat looking out at the sea and I felt free, and for a few hours I was able to forget about what was going on" - Holley
